Vote 'yes' on Proposition 9

By ROBERT MISKIMON

CALIFORNIANS are being asked to consider June 4 perhaps one of the most complex ballot measures ever devised in the form of Proposition 9 -- the initiative measure known as "The Political Reform Act of 1974."

Drawn up originally by Common Cause, and endorsed by a host of individuals and organizations, including, but not limited to, the NAACP, Sierra Club, People's Lobby, California Federation of Teachers, and the National Women's Political Caucus, the measure has four major thrusts:

--Reporting by candidates for political office of all campaign contributions and expenditures of $50 or more, with the name, address, occupation and employers' name of the contributor.

--Limitation of campaign expenditures. Gubernatorial candidates would be limited to spending seven cents times the number of voting age citizens in a primary election, and nine cents in a general election. The other six state Constitutional officers would be limited to three cents per voting age citizen in each election. Incumbent amounts would be reduced by 10 per cent. Other provisions for campaign expenditure limits would apply to state central committees and proponents of initiative measures.

--Regulation of lobbyists' activities through prohibition from their making or arranging any political contributions or from making gifts to state officials of more than $10 per month. Lobbyists would be required to submit monthly statements to the secretary of state detailing all expenditures made, with the name of the beneficiary, in attempting to influence legislative or administrative action. Employers of lobbyists and anyone spending more than $250 per month to influence legislation would also be required to register and file monthly reports. All reports would be public.

--All state and local officials whose financial interests could be affected by their decision-making would be required to file annual statements of their financial interests which could be so affected. This includes sources of income, investments, and property. They would be required to report the name of the interest and whether the interest is more than $10,000. Every candidate for these offices would also be required to file a similar statement with his declaration of candidacy. All state and local agencies would be required to adopt precise conflict-of-interest codes governing their employees. Public officials, as specified, could not participate in any decisions affecting any business of property in which the official has more than a $1,000 interest, or from which the official receives more than $250 within 12 months before the decision, or in which the official holds a major management position.

Other provisions of the initiative provide that a Fair Political Practices Commission, which would be funded with $1 million yearly for its operation, would be created. The commission would be a five-member multi-partisan, independent administrative and investigatory body empowered to subpoena records and witnesses, publicize information, investigate violations, issue injunctive relief, and levy fines.

The governor would appoint the chairman and an additional member of the commission from a different political party. The attorney general, secretary of state, and controller would each appoint one member of the commission.

PROP. 9 also would revise the ballot pamphlet mailed to voters to make it more easily read and understood, prohibit the mailing of legislative newsletters or other mass mailings by incumbent candidates at public expense after they have filed a declaration of candidacy, and provide for complete auditing by the Franchise Tax Board of all campaign statements and lobbyists reports.

All of the provisions contained in Prop. 9 reflect legislative inaction on bills which came before the lawmakers last year to accomplish these various objectives. They have been brought together in one measure in a sweeping attempt at political reform.

Most of the areas in which unethical or improper political actions have occurred are touched upon by Prop. 9, and there can be little doubt that in this day of political cynicism and disenchantment the passage of such a measure would go a long way toward restoring the confidence of the people in their political system.

One of the criticisms of Prop. 9 is that it would add another layer of bureaucracy to the already top-heavy state machinery. To the extent that another state agency would be created, the criticism has some merit. But the structure and function of the Fair Political Practices Commission would place it on a different level from other state agencies, since it would be an objective, monitoring agency desperately needed in any sincere effort to "clean up" the political process.

Another criticism, advanced by a San Francisco public relations firm which engineered the unsuccessful campaign to defeat Prop. 20, is that Prop. 9 would "restrict freedom of speech" by abridging the ability of citizens to petition and influence their legislative representatives.

If anything, Prop. 9 would do just the opposite, by limiting the excessive influence of the wealthy, special interests in the state and thus opening the way for the average citizen to make his voice heard.

Newspapers which are members of newspaper associations that hire lobbyists would not be required to report under Prop. 9 as the employer of a lobbyist, although the newspaper association itself would be required to do so. This, then, does not appear to be an intrusion on the right of the people to know.

One of the most important aspects of Prop. 9 is that amendments could be made to it, if approved by a two-thirds vote of the legislature.

Because of the real need for the kinds of changes in political process envisioned by Prop. 9, and because the measure would permit alterations later of any provisions which are unfair, or difficult to administer, or even unconstitutional, it is a long-overdue step which can go a long way toward restoring political power to the people.

For these reasons, we urge a "yes" vote on Prop. 9.

Schedule of public hearings

Board of Supervisors

Meharry appeal: At 3 p.m. on Tuesday, June 11, the board of supervisors will hear an appeal from the City of Carmel seeking to reverse a recent decision of the zoning administrator approving a use permit for a 162-unit motel planned by Meharry Development Company. The meeting will be held in the supervisors' chambers of the county courthouse in Salinas.

House-numbering plan: At 2 p.m. on Tuesday, June 18, a public hearing will be held to discuss the concept of the five-digit house-numbering system now in effect in Monterey County.

Scenic Highway Element: At 10:30 a.m. on June 18, the Scenic Highway Element of the Monterey County General Plan will be reviewed in a public hearing. The 19-page document, prepared in accordance with state regulations and adopted by the planning commission on May 8, 1974, clearly identifies those roadways in Monterey County which have been designated as part of the state and county scenic highway system.

The meeting will be held in the Supervisors' chamber of the county courthouse in Salinas.

Planning Commission

Batch Plant: At 11:25 a.m. on Wednesday, June 12, the planning commission will consider reclassification of a two-acre parcel of land in Martin Canyon for operation of the proposed Carmel Valley Batch Plant. Rezoning would be necessary prior to issuance of a use permit for the project.

Laguna Robles: At 10:15 a.m. on June 12, the planning commission will consider a preliminary map for the Laguna Robles subdivision, proposed by Larry Cummings for an 11½-acre parcel south of Esquiline Road in Carmel Valley. (Approval of the preliminary map is necessary before rezoning can be considered.)

The meeting will be held in the supervisors' chambers in the county courthouse in Salinas.

Zoning Administrator

Via Contenta residential project: At 2:10 p.m. on June 13, Zoning Administrator Bob Slimmon will hear a request from Roger Grafstein of Stone, Post & Flower for modification of a use permit to allow construction of four dwelling units for individual ownership. A use permit for construction of homes to be rented, granted by Slimmon to Dexter Whitcomb in 1973, is still in effect for the C-1 site. The meeting will be held in the supervisors' chambers in the county courthouse in Salinas.

School Board

The Carmel Unified School District will hold a regular meeting of the school board at 7:30 p.m. on Wednesday, June 12 at the Resource Center (library) of the Carmel Middle School.

EMERGENCY CALLS

First aid:

May 25, 7:45 p.m. at Princess Camp: Clarence Goldsworthy of Monterey was treated at the scene and transported to Community Hospital. Goldsworthy died the following day.

May 26, 1:47 p.m. at the Los Padres dam: Emilio

Cal of New Monterey was treated at the scene for heat exhaustion and released.

May 26, 6:50 p.m. at the fire house: Richard W. Monroe of Carmel was treated for a motorcycle accident and taken to a local doctor.

GETTIN' READY for the Fireman's Ball.

Town Crier

'Summer Showcase' of antiques

A 'Summer Showcase,' featuring antiques, coins and stamps for show and sale will be held at the Monterey Fairgrounds next week, June 8 and 9. Throughout the show, scheduled from 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. Saturday and from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Sunday, hourly silver dollars will be given away as door prizes.

Several Valleyites will show their collections at booths and tables. The public is cordially invited.

Registration for swimming

The Carmel Unified School District announces registration for summer swimming and diving lessons on June 3, 4 and 5. Registration for the Carmel Valley pool will be held at the Carmel Valley Community Center pool on Ford Road from 1 p.m. to 3 p.m., and at the high school pool in Bungalow no. 17, Sunset Center, 10th and San Carlos, Carmel from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Only students living in the Carmel School District will be accepted for registration. The fee is $4 per person. Those who are unable to register on the above dates may register late at the pools beginning June 8. For further information, call the Carmel Recreation Department at 624-3342.

Wood supports Fluornoy

Assemblyman Bob Wood (R-Monterey County) has called on Monterey County Republicans to support Houston I. Fluornoy for Governor in next week's Republican primary election.

Wood, who is the honorary chairman of the Fluornoy campaign in Monterey County, said: "Hugh Fluornoy is widely regarded as one of the most intelligent, articulate, honest and dedicated public officials on the political scene. In the six years that I have been in Sacramento as the State Assemblyman for Monterey County, Hugh Fluornoy has impressed me as the type of man we need as Governor."

"I am convinced that only Hugh can lead the Republican party to victory in November. His experience as a political science professor, legislator, and now as state controller may make him the most qualified non-incumbent to seek the office of Governor in the history of California."

In regard to Fluornoy's chief Republican opponent, Lieutenant Governor Ed Reinecke, Wood said: "I personally do not believe that Ed is guilty of any intentional wrongdoing. He has always acted with honesty and integrity in his dealings with the legislature."

"The fact remains, however, that the Republican party during this time of public cynicism cannot afford the luxury of nominating a candidate who is under indictment. As Reinecke himself has said, the situation would be very difficult if he were nominated."

Plans for 16-building office complex disclosed

Plans for a 16-building professional office complex to be located at the mouth of Carmel Valley will be reviewed by the County Zoning Administrator today for an environmental determination. There appears little doubt that Zoning Administrator Bob Slimmon will request preparation of an environmental impact report on the project, which would then require review by the planning commission in a few months.

The development is planned for a five-acre site on the eastern portion of the Carmel Shopping Center on land owned by Carmel Properties Company. The project consists of 16 one- and two-story buildings grouped around and connected by landscaped courts, with parking for 178 vehicles when the project is completed. A total of 50,000 sq. ft. of floor area is planned for the office complex.

Plans for the development, drawn by Hall & Goodhue Community Design Group of Monterey, include offices for medical, dental, administrative, legal, architectural, engineering, accounting, insurance, stock brokerage and real estate offices. Additional space is to be provided for a coffee shop, medical laboratories, printing offices and the like.

The office complex is to be constructed in stages, with the first stage involving construction of three buildings totaling 9,000 sq. ft. to be ready for occupancy in early spring of 1975, according to Gordon Hall of the architectural firm.

An application for a use permit for the complex was filed with the county planning office on May 7, 1974. The land, zoned R-3 DB-4, is designated for transient residential use, which includes professional offices, according to Slimmon.

Discussion of the 162-unit Meharry hotel development proposed for the mouth of Carmel Valley, scheduled for public hearing last Tuesday, was postponed until 3 p.m. Tuesday, June 11. The meeting will be held by the board of supervisors in their chambers of the courthouse in Salinas.

The continuation, requested by Carmel Mayor Bernard Anderson on behalf of the appellant, the City of Carmel, was granted so that a quorum would be present to hear and take action on the matter. Supervisors Willard T. Branson and Arthur C. Atteridge were absent from the board at 2 p.m. last Tuesday when the appeal was to be considered.

In April, the Carmel City Council appealed the ruling of county zoning administrator Robert Slimmon, who had approved the issuance of a use permit, which was requested by the Meharry Development Company of Monterey.

This is the second request by Meharry and the second time Slimmon has approved the granting of a use permit for the property. The supervisors reversed the first approval last year.

The proposed hotel would be constructed at the intersection of Rio Road and Carmel Rancho Boulevard.

In other action, the board granted an appeal filed by Robert Stevenson from the zoning administrator's decision to approve a use permit application, filed by Stephen Skerce, for operation of an art gallery and classes on Porter's curve in Carmel Valley. Skerce, who was not present at the hearing, had been unable to purchase the land for the proposed facility, so that the plans were actually voided before the hearing, according to Slimmon.

Recycling to be explored tomorrow

Carmel and Carmel Valley groups of 12 volunteers each are taking turns accepting and hauling bottles to Salinas, but Chris Keehn thinks there should be a more convenient recycling center for the tons of glass, metal and paper castaways now being buried.

Other resource retrieval possibilities will be explored by a panel of key people in a public meeting at 7:45 p.m.

Friday, May 31 at Monterey Peninsula Lecture Forum 102.

The successful Palo Alto city-run resource recovery program will be described by Neil O'Meara of that department.

Sponsored by the local chapter of the United Nations Association, the meeting was planned by Mrs. Howard (Charlotte) Clark, Margot Hyatt, and Bill Parsons.

Democratic Co-op endorses Camacho

At its regular meeting May 23 the Monterey Peninsula Democratic Co-op, a chartered Democratic Club, overwhelmingly endorsed the candidacy of Julian Camacho for the Democratic nomination for Congress. The meeting was held at the Carmel Valley home of Bobbie Whipple.

"Camacho has shown himself to be a person with a deep understanding of the problems of the area. He is a proven campaigner and we believe he is the candidate most likely to defeat the incumbent in November," said Ms. Whipple, president of the club.

Other candidates endorsed by the club were Warren Church, Board of Equalization; Henry Fuller, 28th Assembly District (write-in); Reginald DeWar, Monterey County Sheriff; Gary Page and Leon Panetta, Democratic Central Committee, 5th Supervisorial District; and Ruth Vreeland, Colleen McGrath & David Goynes, 4th Supervisorial District. The group also endorsed Prop. 9, the campaign reform initiative.

INDICATED in the picture above is the site of a proposed 16-building office complex development. The county planning commission will meet today to make their determination on the environmental impact of the project, submitted by Carmel Properties Company. (Photo by Larry Crawford.)

Riverside Park permit set for public hearing June 26

The Monterey County Planning Commission decided to postpone its hearing on an environmental determination regarding proposed additions to Riverside Park Campground yesterday so that a public meeting on the matter may be held. A new date for the hearing has been set for June 26, with the time as yet unscheduled.

A new use permit request which would involve an increase from the present limit of 20 trailer sites and 15 tent sites to a total of 55 campsites to be used interchangeably has been submitted by the owner of the park, Nicholas Neddelcove. Neddelcove has also asked that the time limit on campsite occupancy be extended from two weeks to one year.

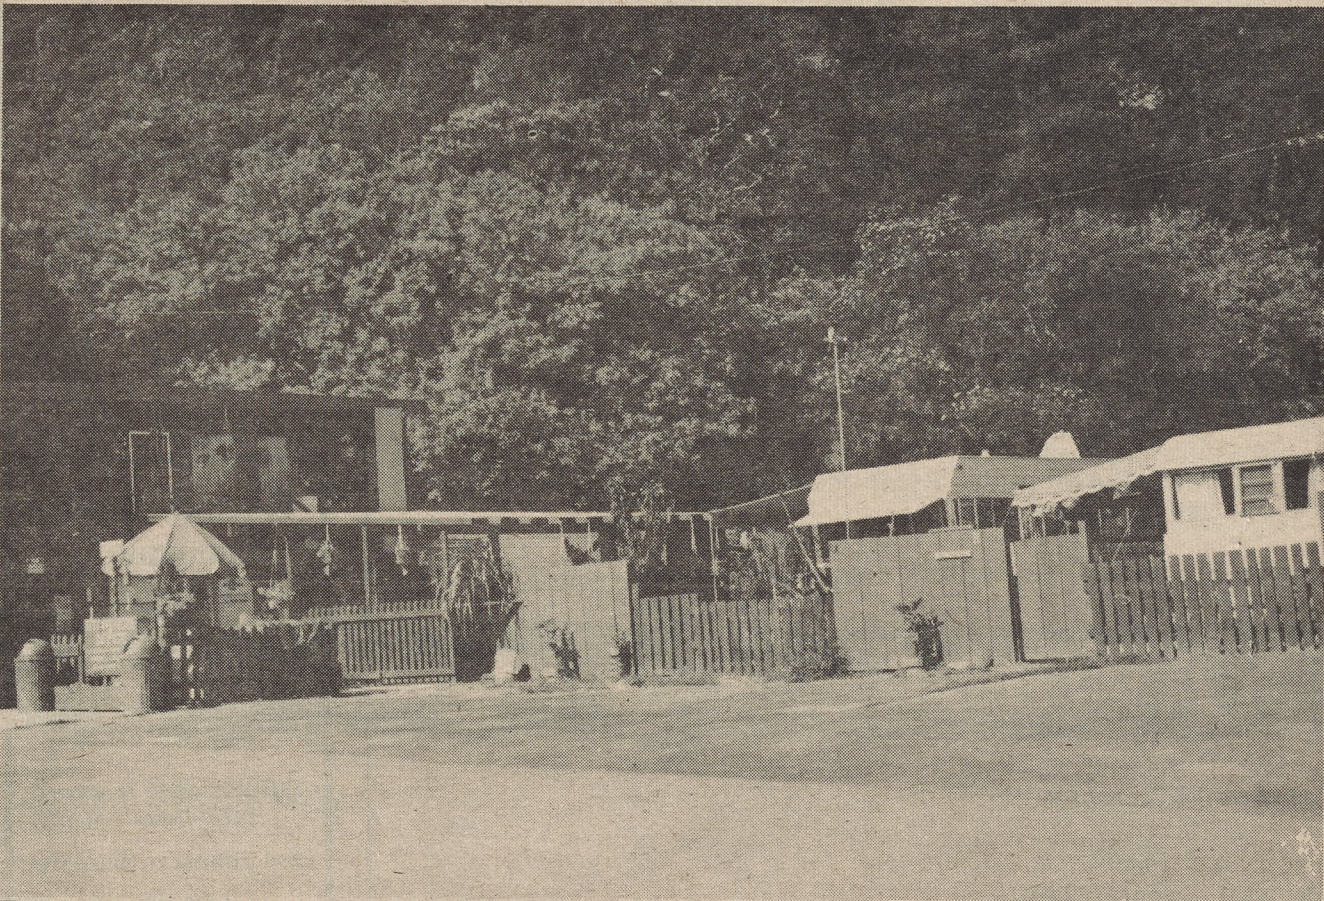

Riverside Park is currently operating under a one-year permit, which will expire in July 1974. During the July 26, 1973 meeting of the planning commission, the commissioners revised the use permit for the facility, tightening controls in an effort to end violations of the previous permit.

During a brief discussion of the new request from Neddelcove, last Tuesday Commissioner Edward Marcucci stated, "The application is ridiculous considering the controversy involved. I think it's just a waste of our time and his (Neddelcove's)."

If the use permit is granted, you would have a 55-unit mobile home park, without question," advised zoning administrator Robert Slimmon.

At the public hearing, the commissioners will have the option of denying the application, as well as filing a negative declaration on environmental hazards or requesting preparation of an environmental impact report. At their meeting last Tuesday, only the latter two options would have been open to them.

RIVERSIDE Park Campground in Carmel Valley once again will become the focus of attention for the planning commission when it meets for a public hearing on June 26 to consider a request for additions to the facility.

DEDICATION OF VILLAGE SHRINE

The statue of the Immaculate Heart of Mary, which has stood for more than a decade at its present location under the great oak tree in the heart of the Carmel Valley Village, will be officially blessed by the Rev. Father Juan Oronoz, acting pastor of Our Lady of Mt. Carmel Church, on Sunday, May 31 at 1 p.m.

The statue is located outside the CV Art Gallery; the nearby parking area will be roped off for the event.

The statue was executed by the Monterey sculptor Djei Ownes, who will be present at the dedication. According to the artist, a special crucifix blessing by the late Pope Pius XII, was sealed into the heart of the statue.

'DELINQUENTS' APPREHENDED

One Carmel boy and seven who live on the outskirts of the city or in Carmel Valley, all seniors at Carmel High School, were arrested last week on various charges of burglary and petty theft.

According to the Carmel police report; the four boys involved in the burglaries, which had gone on for six months, stated that they first entered houses for "the thrill of a new experience."

Captain William Ellis said that, asked why they had become involved in the petty thefts, two boys answered as follows:

"We were waiting for the Youth Center to open."

"We had nothing to do because the Youth Center was closed."

INSTITUTE FOR NONVIOLENCE MOVES ON

A simply structured building...a group of people gathered together to contemplate a world in which there is no violence, no murder, no hate, and abounding in an understanding and brotherhood of man...and area situated among the hills and valleys of the Santa Lucia range which bespeaks nothing but peacefulness -- an apt scenario for the Institute of Nonviolence on Carmel Valley Road in Carmel Valley.

While other causes have seemed to separate themselves from their original intentions, the Institute for the Study of Nonviolence, organized in June, 1965, has been content with the full spectrum of nonviolence activity. It has shut out the noiseless "outside pressures" and remained wholly dedicated to nonviolence.

In an opening statement of purpose for the first issue of the Institute's "Journal," it read, "The Institute has come into being because of a need in our time. All over the world men agree that, on pain of universal destruction, organized violence, i.e. war, must be outlawed."

Ira Sanperl, one of its dynamic leaders and president of the institute, was born in St.

Louis, Missouri. Joan Baez Harris, sensitive, compassionate folk-singer and "nonviolent soldier," is the vice-president of the school. She is well known. She cries, hurts, gets angry, laughs, loves, conceives, and dreams just as we all do. Her message is in her singing and her writing.

The Institute is based primarily on informal yet scheduled and disciplined seminars, financed partly through donations and by nominal tuition costs. Each seminar begins with 20 minutes of silence, and discussions often include the works of Eric Fromm, Henry David Thoreau, Albert Camus, Mahatma Gandhi and Gunnar Myrdal, among others.

Resting peacefully in the Valley, the white stucco building which has housed the Institute for the Study of Nonviolence will be abandoned in June as the Institute moves to Palo Alto to conduct its seminars. It is in Palo Alto that Joan and David Harris now reside and apparently "where it's at" on the Resistance front.

SPIGOTS TURNED OFF FOR NEW DEVELOPMENTS

The California Public Utilities Commission today issued an interim order stating that the California American Water Company "should be prohibited from extending any water mains to serve any new developments in the Monterey Peninsula division that are not in final planning stages."

At the same time, the PUC turned down a request by Standard International Co., developer of Hidden Hills, for an interim order allowing the water company to serve homes in that 2000 acre subdivision.

The PUC also turned down a request from the water company to continue hearings for six months on the PUC's investigation into the adequacy of water supplies on the Monterey Peninsula. The PUC has ordered public hearings to resume on June 18 and 19.

TULARCITOS CHARTS SOLO COURSE

Tularcitos School will do an about-face in September and return to self-contained classrooms with one teacher instructing approximately 25 children.

For the first time in many years, there will be no large classes taught by two teachers, with the exception of the Early Childhood unit, in which Sallie Witter and Barbara Wilson will continue to team.

Because this is what his teachers want, the change is supported by Principal Tom Williams, although he remains "philosophically committed to teaming."

"This is a cycle that a school goes through. What is important to remember is that schools change every year as their needs change," said Williams. "And it is important that the district supports the needs of individual schools each year."

The walls will go back up in the large classrooms at Tularcitos, but they won't be the solid, "permanent" variety like those which were knocked out a few years ago. This time they will be folding doors, which can be opened or closed at will.

UNDER THE OAKS & AMONG THE CACTI

By Mildred Hattan

CARMEL VALLEY Volunteer Fire Department will greet guests at the 26th annual Fireman's Ball at 9 a.m. this Saturday night. The gala affair will be held at the Carmel Valley Golf & Country Club and all are invited to attend.

Fireman's Ball this Saturday

Saturday night's the night! The 26th annual Fireman's Ball will get under way when the maestro gives the downbeat to "The Royals" at 9 p.m. on June 1 at the Carmel Valley Golf & Country Club.

Social Chairman John Radon and committee members Larry Busick, Richard Crane and Chris Spaulding have managed to keep ticket donations at $1 per person. Door prizes include a Schilling spice rack, dinner for two at the Buckeye Restaurant, and a collector's bottle from the Village Liquors.

Your donation and support (tax deductible) will help to express the community's appreciation to the Carmel Valley volunteer fire laddies who during 1973 responded to 77 fire calls and 155 first aid calls. In addition, they spent over 2,000 man-hours in training.

Manning the Valley station while local department members and their wives play host to the community during the evening of frolic will be Captain Eric Jensen and his crew from the Carmel Fire Department. Radio contact will be maintained between the station and the C.V. Gold & Country Club between 9 p.m. and 2 a.m.

John Radon and the Valley volunteers say, "Please join us Saturday evening... you'll have a ball!"

Fidelity Club Potluck

Sister Chris Eaton, THM, will entertain the Carmel Valley Community Chapel Fidelity Club at their potluck dinner meeting on Thursday, June 6, at 6 p.m. in Fellowship Hall on Village Drive. This meeting will be the last for the club until October.

Hostesses for the evening will be the outgoing officers, Mrs. Clifford E. Bolgard and Mrs. John S. Power, assisted by Clifford E. Bolgard.

Sister St. Christopher Eaton is a member of the Immaculate Heart of Mary Community and teaches advanced surgical nursing at Hartnell College in Salinas. She is known as "Sister Chris" to her host of many admirers on the Monterey Peninsula, where she has appeared many times to entertain. She has made two records, "Some of My Favorite Sings," made in conjunction with St. Dunstan's Episcopal Church, and "Songs I Sang for My Father," released this past spring. These records will be available for purchase at the Fidelity Club dinner.

An open invitation is extended to everyone interested in hearing the program and joining in the fellowship of the Fidelity Club.

Spring Concert tonight

The annual Carmel High School Spring Concert will be held at 8 p.m. on Thursday evening, May 30, in the Donald Craig Gymnasium at the high school.

The high school concert band, under the direction of Henry Avila, will perform various selections including: Symphonic Concert March, by G. Bonelli; Sweet Charity selections arranged by E. Whitcomb; The Gallant Seventh March by J.

P. Sousa; and Folk Song Suite by V. Williams.

The high school string ensemble, directed by Miss Sharon Jones, will perform two selections on the program: Allemande and Minuet by Rousseau, arranged by Poehon; and the allegro from Concerto Grosso, Op. 3 No. 2 by Geminiani. The concert is open to the public and admission is free.

Coin Show this Sunday

The First Annual Coin Show, sponsored by the Monterey Peninsula Coin Club, will be held from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. this Sunday, June 2, in the gymnasium of the Carmel Middle School.

Exhibits, mostly those of local coin collectors, will also include bills from San Francisco and San Jose and the collection of San Francisco resident Victor Pitoff, who lists specimens from Mongolia, Russia and China.

Viewing of this unique show is free. Mint sets will be awarded hourly, and door prizes, to be presented at 5 p.m., will include a $10 gold piece, a $5 gold piece, 10 silver dollars, and five silver dollars.

Valley Pinscher tops Specialty Show

A Carmel Valley dog named "Champion Loron's Aviator" was selected as Best of Breed from among more than 150 entries at the 10th annual Doberman Pinscher Specialty Show held last weekend at the Carmel Valley Inn. Co-owners of the prize winning Pinscher are Mrs. Helen Kameron and Mrs. Nancy Hogans of Carmel Valley.

Other awards included:

Best of Winners -- "Tamarak's Bolger V. Satan," owned by Barbara Flores of Palos Verde;

Winner's Bitch -- "Sojole's Characen," owned by Santa Biess of Santa Rosa;

Obedience High Scorers -- (first place) "Ronsu's Clipper Blue Jacket," owned by Wayne Boyd of San Mateo, which earned a score of 197 in the Utility Dog Tracking Open "B" Class and placed first in the Utility Class with 194½ points; (second place) "Re-Mo-Na's Keiki," owned by Robert D. Martin of San Francisco, which earned 196½ points in the Novice "A" Class.

Champion Trial Winner -- "Champion Flashburn's Osiris V. Rufina," owned by Belva and Bill Waters of San Jose, with 190½ points scored in the Novice "B" Class; "Rufina" also captured the title of Champion of Confirmation.

Best Puppy -- "Electra's High Voltage," owned by Ed and Judy Bingham of Yucaipa, Calif., in the 9-12 month-olds class and was also named Reserve Winner dog.

Members of the sponsoring Cabrillo Doberman Pinscher Club were hosts for judges, breeders and handlers at a poolside dinner at the Carmel Valley Inn the evening before the show.

Greeting guests were club President Mrs. Nancy Hogans, Vice President John Mehrholiz, Secretary Susan Green, Show Secretary Judy Eisner, Treasurer Dick Kameron, Obedience Chairman Norman Geis, and Hospitality Chairman Kathy Mehrholiz. Also assisting were board members Butch Handy and Barbara Sanders, who with her husband, Bob, served as ring stewards. Show veterinarians were Dr. Gerald Retkus and Dr. Sandy McNeel.

The catalogue for the 10th anniversary of the specialty show was dedicated to "Damasyn, the Test Pilot," "Tiger," as the handsome dog was known, was adopted in April of 1973 from the Club Rescue Project by Mrs. Eleanor Nickerson of San Diego. "Tiger" died April 7 of this year at 10½ years of age, the victim of cancer.

Mid-Valley Parent Nursery party

Parents celebrated the success of the first year of the Mid-Valley Parent Nursery School last week around the indoor pool of Mary and Bill Ijams on Lilac Lane. Barbara Krueger, retiring president, received a handsome gift of pottery from the group in appreciation of her year of service, and a special tribute from her husband, Dick, who presented her with a dozen roses.

Enjoying the barbecue and pool party were: Carla and Jerry Vanderland, Laura and Chip Planteaux, Paula and Bill Carson, Mary and John Pomeroy, Carol and John Collins, Diane and Jack Wade, Pat and Graves Cox, Betty and Don Carter, Lorraine and Frank Tarantino, Pat McKenna, and the incoming president, Joyce Mayers and husband, Dan.

Parents of prospective students aged 2½-5 who reside within the Valley are reminded that they may join the Mid-Valley Parent Nursery for next fall by making application through Carol Collins (659-4368).

CVYCC holds annual membership meeting

Charles Gansel was re-elected to the board of directors at the annual membership meeting of the Carmel Valley Community Youth Center last Thursday evening and then elected as president of the board for the 1974-75 term.

The long-time Valley resident has served previously on the center board and supported numerous center activities over the years. Also elected to executive posts were: Mrs. Jim Ijams, vice president; Mrs. Richard McKenzie, secretary; and Mrs. Clyde Hitchcock, treasurer.

Unanimously elected as new board members were Frank Catalano and Capt. (USA ret.) Frank Werdelman, proposed by Beth Hitchcock; and Mrs. Harvey (Lois) Deal, Augie Acuna, Dr. David Morris, and Charles Gansel, sponsored by Mildred Hattan.

Retiring President Jim Luttrell accepted with regrets the resignation of board members Mrs. John von Berg, Bob Wehe, and Lee Mink.

As chairman of the successful Champagne Auction, Lee Mink was commended for the numerous hours devoted to the fund-raising event.

The center is available for rent for dinners, parties, meetings, receptions, etc. For further information please call 659-2468 or 659-2398.

Chapel Guild Social Club meets

Mrs. Theo Mirani and Mrs. Rudolph Bautz were co-hostesses of the May benefit bridge and canasta party sponsored by the Social Club of the Carmel Valley Community Chapel Guild.

Roses centered the dessert table in Fellowship Hall, where guests were served delicious cakes baked by Guild members Gerda Hansen and Carol Boudouin. The vases filled with flowers, which centered each card table, were presented as table prizes to canasta winners Louis Koenig, Rosa Clark, Speedy Farr, Jennie Biggins, and Vera Stokes.

Winners at the bridge tables included Muriel Dawson, Irma Bolgard, Martha Huff, Fran Wilson, Ruth Wade and Colleen Benediktsson. Jean Stekly has been named hostess for the June party. Reservations will be accepted by Vera Bautz at 659-2951.

European tour for the Nicholsons

Spare moments at the Paso Hondo residence of Mrs. Judy Nicholson and daughters Fawn and Heidi are spent sorting photos for their memory book of their recent three-week tour in Europe. All Saints' students Fawn, 13, and Heidi, 8, accompanied their mother aboard a 747 to Spain where they were met by Lt. Cmdr. Richard "Pete" Peterson in Palma. Following a visit to Father Junipero Serra's birthplace, the foursome made an extensive exploration of Europe, including Barcelona, Rome, Florence, Venice; five days in France (with Fawn's seven years of French proving a decided advantage in communicating); six days in London and home to the Valley to daydream of the Caves of Droo, Guards at Buckingham Palace, gondolas, leaning towers, Big Ben, and many more special stops on their story book tour.

Vacation Bible School changes schedule

The Carmel Valley Community Chapel has announced a change in summer plans this year for the vacationing young people of Carmel Valley who have for many years have enjoyed two weeks of a Vacation Bible School.

Instead of holding a week-day Bible school this year, there will be Sunday school on Sunday mornings for five weeks, under the direction of Barbara Henderson, who will be using the Gospel Lights DVBS materials and Craft packs for classes through grade 6.

The program, which begins this Sunday, will be supervised by a nursery attendant and a K-1 teacher.

FEEDING PIGEONS in St. Mark's Square in Venice is Valleyite Mrs. Judy Nicholson with daughters Heidi, left, and Fawn on a recent three-week tour of Europe. "Cosmopolitan pigeon feeders" was the nickname coined for the two All Saints' students, who, according to their mother, found and fed the feathered natives of all the countries they visited.

Betty Shields to retire

Get well soon to Mrs. Kenneth (Betty) Shields, the gracious hostess at the Valley's favorite gathering spot, the Village Library. Betty, who is currently a patient in Community Hospital, will be retiring to her home in San Benancio Canyon in another two weeks.

Because she has so many friends among library patrons of all ages, Mrs. Jim Ijams and Mrs. Jon Englund were afraid some of them would not have an opportunity to give her their best wishes in person. So, they have placed a gigantic greeting card for notes and signatures at the library. Do take a moment to drop by and add your name to a long list of admirers.

Carmel Foundation visits Valley

About 65 members of the Carmel Foundation were guests last Thursday of Mrs. Vivian Holman at her Carmel Valley ranch, located in the mountains above Carmel Valley Village.

Members left Town House by car at 10:30 a.m. Following a buffet luncheon at the ranch, Mrs. Holman conducted them on a tour of her home explaining the historic background of many of her beautiful antiques. The group returned to Carmel at 3 p.m., weary, but enthusiastic.

Preparations for Youth Fair '74

Members of the Monterey County Fair's board of directors approved decorating and entertainment plans for the 1974 fair during a meeting held recently. Fair dates are July 23-28, with the National Horse Show following on August 5-10.

"Youth" is the theme for this year's fair, and decorating emphasis will be in Pattee Arena, where a "fair within a fair" will feature programs of youth groups throughout Monterey County, as well as the work of the county's school children.

Storybook Theater, one of four acts scheduled to appear on the outdoor stage during the six-day fair, will perform for young fairgoers and their families on Saturday and Sunday, July 27-28. Flamenco dancers, a Western band and singer, and a group of Las Vegas-style dancers will also perform as part of the free entertainment provided during the fair. A special feature will be Charlie Allen's "Petting Zoo."

The board also discussed AB 4091, the Assembly bill which will have its first hearing on June 12 before the Committee on Governmental Organizations, and which would provide a $625,000 grant and a $625,000 loan to finance roofing of Pattee Arena. This total was included in the more than $2 million five-year building program also discussed by the board. The plan gives priority to rehabilitating existing buildings to meet safety requirements outlined in recent reports of two governmental agencies, and also provides for erection of new buildings.

Senior Little League season gets underway

Carmel-Carmel Valley Senior Little League opened Saturday, May 18 with ceremonies directed by Vice President Don Corona of Carmel Valley. After the teams had been introduced and an invocation delivered by Deane Hendricks of the Carmel Presbyterian Church, Senior League play got underway.

In action Saturday, the Rotary Mets blanked the Carmel Host Lions 14-0; the K of C Giants shut out the Carmel Police Youth Athletic Association Athletics 20-0; and the Buckeye Padres were defeated by the Carmel Dental Dodgers 14-2.

On Monday evening, the Kiwanis Tigers trounced the Carmel Host Lions 11-1, despite a double hit by Lion Joel Spencer. Tuesday's game between the Rotary Mets and Dental Dodgers was postponed because of improvements underway on the field at the Middle School, as was Wednesday's game. On Thursday, the Carmel Rotary Mets blanked the Host Lions 13-0 behind the pitching of Kelly Ragan. Ragan hit a double to aid his own cause.

Wednesday's postponed game between the Buckeye Padres and the CPYAA Athletics was played Friday, and the As overran the Padres 11-1 on excellent pitching by former Carmel Little League Allstar Mark Dodd, who doubled and tripled to help secure his own victory. Alan Dewey also doubled for the As.

Last Saturday, Carmel Rotary Mets shut out the CPYAA As 12-0 behind two triples by Kelly Ragan and a double by Joe Tarantino, the Carmel Kiwanis Tigers and the K of C Giants battled to an 8-8 tie, which will be played off if necessary to determine league champion later in the season (Frank Lucido, Larry Ocampo, and Stu Giffin all got extra base hits for the Tigers), and the Carmel Dental Dodgers defeated the Host Lions 21-0 in the final game of the afternoon. Former Carmel Valley Allstar Micah Willingham was the losing pitcher of record for the Lions.

On Monday, May 27, the Dental Dodgers upset last year's champions, the Kiwanis Tigers 8-4 behind the pitching of Tom Frincke. The Tigers only runs were scored in the first inning when Larry Ocampo of Carmel Valley hammered a grand slam home run, which is worth noting since the Middle School field is played "hot" -- there are not outfield fences -- making home runs extremely rare. Tim Poehlmann of the Dodgers doubled.

HumRRO holds learning workshop for staff

The Human Resources Research Organization (HumRRO), an independent, non-profit research and development organization with a branch office located in Carmel Valley, sponsored the second work session of the Staff Development Institute on May 20 through 24 at the Asilomar Conference Grounds in Pacific Grove.

The Institute, directed by Dr. J. Richard Suchman, is a pilot project funded by the U.S. Office of Education under provisions of the Adult Education Act.

Fifteen key administrators from USOE, Regions IX and X attended the work session. Supported by the Institute, they devoted their efforts to promoting professional growth of teachers through an experimental process of problem solving and inquiry-based instruction. Other techniques, including peer instruction, management by objectives, and participative problem solving were presented to the specialists.

Following the Staff Development Institute session, 16 state project officers and key USOE personnel reviewed findings at a National Dissemination Conference on May 25 through 26, held at the Ramada Inn in Monterey.

Tennis Talk

By KEN GREEN

ONE SUNNY afternoon some eight years ago a compulsive, brazen fellow named Peter Paxton came trotting into the Pebble Beach Tennis Club with a set of plans in his hand.

His proposal was to build a tennis club and camp in Carmel Valley, and he wanted our opinion on whether we thought it would prove a success. There were various replies such as "no way" or "too windy," but several of us felt it was a sound plan if the right location could be found. Peter spent much time and effort, and with lengthy negotiations finally settled on the present location, a beautiful setting with sunshine and considerably less wind than most of the valley.

Paxton went to work and put the club on its feet, and then, growing tired of the area he sold out to Bill and Mimi Sours, who are the present owners. Paxton has gone on to build many clubs and he tells me he is going to retire soon and spend some time in this area—good grief, we are all in trouble!

As they say in Las Vegas—this is where the action is. Over the years the Racquet Club has corralled the area's top players and has conducted the most active and competitive tennis program. This club could hold its own in inter-club competition with any other tennis facility in the land. You will never find a more genial bunch of tennis nuts anywhere, devoted to no-nonsense tennis, a glass of beer and out on the courts.

There are no social cliques at the Racquet Club and the "A" players may be often found playing with intermediate types of even mixed doubles (good grief!). Tennis fans who were charter members of the Racquet Club when it was just six courts and a trailer are still there doing their thing in their own unique, unhurried fashion.

There are grumblings about this and rumblings about that, but despite any small shortcomings it is still far and away the best tennis buy on the Monterey Peninsula. Bill Sours, who has about the same tennis background as Arnold Palmer, has learned by trial and error the intricacies of operating a family tennis club. I know there are many times when Bill wished he had invested the money in a 75-foot schooner and sailed from distant ports, but I think now he is beginning to enjoy the action and the club is profiting by his enthusiasm.

Jack Frost will head the camp activities and the enrollment is way ahead of last year. Bill is building two new courts and contemplating a third. Grass is beginning to grow, flowers are blooming, things are looking up at the Carmel Valley Racquet Club.

HOWEVER... how about retiring for all time the junior sport of "Marco Polo." If old Marco could hear that all summer long he would have changed his name to Richard Nixon, Sue, anything.

Memorial Day weekend saw all Peninsula courts jammed to capacity. 150 players signed up for a blind mixed draw and barbecue at the Racquet Club.

Occasional Pebble Beach residents Dr. Ron Lowell, wife Barbara and tennis playing sons were enhancing the tennis scene over the weekend.

Summer : a chance for success

EDITOR'S NOTE: The following article, written by Gordon Kramer, community counselor for the Carmel Unified School District, is the second in a series dealing with significant changes currently taking place in our local schools. Based on his personal involvement with youngsters at Carmel High School, Kramer shares some suggestions for changes in parental attitudes and behavior with the aim of making this summer a satisfying and productive one for all young people and their families.

By GORDON KRAMER

Next week will bring the end of another school year for the students of Carmel Valley and Carmel. After nine months of academic labor, they will finally be rewarded with three months of vacation. To some students, however, the struggle might not seem altogether worth it.

As the community counselor for the Carmel school district, I guess I have a somewhat distorted view of the students, for I usually get to know a student only after he or she has had some difficulties. I am still a bit surprised whenever I come in contact with a young person who is doing well and enjoying life. Fortunately, about 80-85 per cent of our students fall into this category. The other 15-20 per cent fall into my area of concern.

I wish there were some easy, sure fire way to identify this latter group -- such as they all have divorced parents, or below average I.Q. scores, or long hair; but the fact is that each of these students is different. Like all young people, they cope, in the best way they know how, with their own environments. Some young people are labeled "problems" because they are failing, usually at home as well as at school. And the more they fail, the less likely they are to try to change.

With June around the corner, the threat of failing at school will vanish for three months. But what's going to happen around the house during June, July and August? Will these kids find their chance to succeed, to develop some self-respect, to gain confidence in their own abilities as individuals in a world of people?

For the last nine months, families have been reinforcing habitual patterns of relating to one another within their separate units. And these relationship habits are strongest around problem areas. For instance, when Son doesn't take out the trash on time, first Mom reminds him, and he replies casually, "During the next commercial." Of course, he forgets. Then Dad asks him a bit more firmly to take care of his chores, and Son promptly pleads for five more minutes of a "very interesting" program.

And so it goes until the stack finally blows and everyone's mood is ruined for the entire evening. Stereotyped as it may sound, this type of verbal interaction is repeated almost word for word in homes night after night as often as seven times a week. Certainly there are more satisfying ways to share a home among family members.

This summer provides parents an ideal opportunity to re-evaluate how they are helping their kids develop into men and women. The pressure of school will be off and there won't be another report card until mid-fall.

What is going to be happening in your house this summer? Are you pleased with the prospect of continuing the status quo with your child? If parents are unwilling to change and to grow, what kind of example are they setting for their children?

Perhaps I can offer some suggestions for you to consider and maybe even try during the summer months:

1. Wait until at least August 15 before discussing plans for the next school year.
2. Try not to discuss your child's failures of the past year until then.
3. State as clearly and as simply as possible to your child the rules of conduct which are going to be acceptable during the summer. (These might include items such as curfew time and designation of chores.)
4. Allow for a review of these rules by July 1 to determine whether they are working to everyone's benefit.
5. Make a special effort to find one thing each day that your child is doing that pleases you -- and tell him or her about it.
6. Make a point of spending time together as a family even if your kids fight it at first. After all, they may learn to like it. Have a nice summer.

BICYCLES were inspected at Carmelo School yesterday, with official stickers and triangular flags issued to those bikes passing the safety check. Above, D.L. Peelo of the California Highway Patrol checks Wendy Rombold's bike.

FUN AND games for the cyclists were provided after inspection was completed. Students looped between tires in an obstacle course race, teeter-tottered across the school field in a turtle race, in which the slowest was named winner, and screamed crepe paper around their bicycles in a decorating contest, won by Kira Garrett.

A storyteller's paradise

It's not surprising that every few years, film companies haul their stars and crews from Hollywood all the way out to Carmel Valley to capture some the "local scenery" in their latest films. The landscape here is not only dramatic, but lends itself easily to the creation of any tale.

Spindly, moss-covered oaks intertwine to form an eerie network, suggesting visions which would induce many children to shiver with excitement. Those who ponder over the wonders of other planets can slip into full-color daydreams with a glance at the straw-colored hills and ridges, which silently speak of vast, unearthly emptiness. For the admirers of the old-fashioned Paul Bunyan tales, a glance skyward in the Valley forests is sufficient. Redwoods appear to tower above the sun, paragons of indomitable strength and vigor.

Student films ranged from poor to excellent in 'Screening '74'

"Screening '74," the sixth annual presentation of Monterey Peninsula students' films, premiered last Friday night at Carmel High School, with further screenings scheduled for this coming weekend, Friday, May 31, and Saturday, June 1.

More than 20 films were shown, with lengths varying from one minute to 14 minutes. As far as quality was concerned, the films fluctuated from being perfectly awful to outstanding.

If one pervading attitude is reached regarding the entire screening, it would be of the awareness of a sad lack of commitment on the parts of the students; an overall impression is left of dullness, lack of creativity and ingenuity, and there is a propensity to fall back on what is "cute," rather than what is clever or original.

To be sure, not all of the films fall in this category. A few were remarkable for their insight, technical skill and deft handling and understanding of the medium.

It is interesting to note that the films that were the most successful were those kept under five minutes in running time. The films that were the most boring and monotonous seemed to go on for interminable lengths.

As in all creative endeavors, be it the novel, the painting, or the film, a commitment must be made toward the effort, from the beginning idea to the finished product. Granted, it is extremely difficult to be objective about one's own creative efforts.

It requires a great deal of dispassionate strength to know when to stop, where to edit, and to be able to distinguish that fine line between having said too much, or not enough. Unless this strict objectivity is maintained, the creative work becomes self-indulgent, and as in this case, a stupefying visual over-kill was reached more often than not.

A perfect example of this was depicted in "Vocabulary Film," an interesting and well done montage of animation and corresponding words. The concept of the film was achieved within the first three minutes, and yet the film ran for a total of 11 minutes.

In sharp contrast, the film "The Pen Pals," a beautifully conceived statement of Army life, ran for only four minutes. Another excellent film, "Once Upon a Man," a cleverly illustrated fable on life's absurdities, ran for a grand total of one minute. "Insto-sharp," a clever and amusing take-off on a certain television commercial, also ran for only one minute.

Despite its many flaws, "Screening '74" nevertheless provided an interesting insight into the students' approaches to the exciting medium of filmmaking. It is only a little disheartening and disappointing, as well, that so few of the students chose to use their craft and explore their subjects to the depths they might have.

'Festival of Plays' coming to Forest Theater

The Children's Experimental Theater will be presenting a series of plays known collectively as "Festival of Plays." Directed by Marcia Hovick, with assistance from Adam Lembeck and Susan Tiffany, the plays will run the first two weekends in June. Settings and lights are by William Lewis and costumes by Loel Shuler.

On Saturday, June 1 and 8, six plays will be performed: "The Paradise of Children," third and fourth graders, 9:30 a.m.; "The Indian Captive," fifth graders, 10:30 a.m.; "The Golden Goose," seventh graders, 12 noon; "The Paradise of Children," new cast, 1:30 p.m.; and "Midsummer Night's Dream," eighth through twelfth graders, 8 p.m.

On Sunday, June 2 and 9, a new cast will perform "The Paradise of Children," at 1 p.m.; "The New Captive," at 1:30 p.m. The same cast will perform "The Ghosts of Thorensfield" at 4 p.m. and a "Midsummer Night's Dream" at 8 p.m.

All plays are free of charge. For further information, please call the Forest Theater, 624-1531.

Chamber Music Society

plans '74-'75 season

MAGIC CARPET Players Bruce Mairs and Dave Dunham.

The Chamber Music Society of the Monterey Peninsula has announced the 1974-75 season concerts.

On Nov. 29 The Vienna Quintet, a group composed of piano and strings, will perform, followed on Dec. 14 by Anne Perret, a mezzo soprano, and the Rodrigo de Zayas Duo, lute players.

The Richards Woodwind Quintet plays Feb. 4, 1975, The Japan Piano Trio on March 5, 1975 and The Cleveland String Quartet, April 19, 1975.

Chairman Jeanne Hagemeyer urged early renewals of members since the total membership, as in the past, is a controlled figure and when the maximum is sold the membership remains closed for the season.

The 1974-75 concerts were announced at the Chamber Music Society's annual meeting held at Sunset Center on May 19. At this same meeting, the first board of directors met and elected officers for the 1974-75 season.

They are Vahe' Aslanian, president; Alvin Andrus, vice president; Jeanne Hagemeyer, vice president; Mrs. Clifford Tomlinson, secretary and Herbert Myers, treasurer.

The new member-director welcomed to the board was Marie Oliver. Returning to the board for a second term are Alvin Andrus, Mrs. S.B. Knoll, Mrs. R.L. Lloyd, Herbert Myers and Mrs. J.P. Scroggs.

A unique "thank-you" was presented to the retiring president, Mausita Jennings, at the meeting. She was given a collection of recordings, each one of an artist or group who had performed during the season she was president.

Each album sleeve was signed by the performer, thus making a handsome addition to the collection of autographed recordings she accumulated during her 15 years in business in Carmel at the Browse-Around Record Shop.

Esperanto soiree Sunday

The Esperanto Coffee House in Carmel is sponsoring its seventh "soiree" at 8 p.m. Sunday, June 2. The "soiree," which will consist of folk and mountain music, benefits the University for Man. A special feature this week will be the reading of works of Mark Twain by Sampson Bowers, a local artist and writer.

The program is to be held at All Saint's Episcopal Church Parish Hall in Carmel at 9th and Lincoln Streets. A donation of $1.50 includes coffee, cider and snacks. For any further information, call Esperanto at 624-9444.

Magic Carpet to perform two children's shows

The Magic Carpet Player of Hidden Valley Theater will soon open their summer series with two completely different shows.

The first, "Miles Portley," is an original tale about a turtle who falls in love with a beautiful daisy. First performed by the group last February, the show was held over throughout the month.

The second show, "Beauty and Beast," is composed of three acts: "Beauty and Beast," "Rumpelstiltskin" and the "Piggy Wiggy Boogie." The dramatic conflict between beast and beauty runs throughout the show. Rumpelstiltskin (alias Nikzllitslepmur) and B.B. Wolf (Piggy Wiggy's big time talent scout from the Hollywoods) share with the beast similar roles as misinterpreted "bad guys."

"Miles" or "Beauty" will be performed every Friday, Saturday and Sunday for a three-weekend period beginning Friday, June 7, and ending Sunday, June 23. Each weekend, three shows will be performed at the Hidden Valley Theatre on Ford Road in Carmel Valley.

The Magic Carpet will open the first weekend with "Miles Portley." Show times are 8 p.m. Friday and Saturday nights and 2 p.m. Sunday afternoons. The weekends of June 14 and June 21 will offer both "Miles Portley" and "Beauty and Beast."

A special invitational performance of "Beauty and Beast" will be given at 8 p.m. on Thursday, June 20. This invitational performance will help raise money to buy badly needed lighting equipment and curtains for the Hidden Valley Theatre. Tickets are $15 per seat. If you are interested in helping out, please contact Hidden Valley Music Seminars. For tickets and information, please call 659-3115.

'A Star Is Born' at Tantamount

The Tantamount screen lights up this weekend with a rare film classic, the original 1937 version of "A Star Is Born" starring Janet Gaynor, Frederic March, and Adolphe Menjou.

Frederic March is credited with one of the best performances of his career as the fading movie star who falls in love with a shy, young, country girl. Helping her to become a star, he finds that her fame is slowly eclipsing his.

Screening time both Friday and Saturday is at 8:40 at the Tantamount Theater on Middle Canyon Road in Carmel Valley.

DISCOVER THE MONTEREY PENINSULA'S EXCITING WORLD OF DINING AND ENTERTAINMENT

Being an avid reader of historical English novels, when I entered the Pump House for the first time I felt as though I had stepped into a 16th Century novel. A sudden feeling, a deja vu, of familiarity almost distracted my attention from meeting and interviewing owner Ned Thomas, and Steve Slade, the manager. They seated me in the Tavern area at the rustic table close to the hearth, and brought me a glass of Dubonnet.

If you really want a steak that's

A STEAK!...

... the place to get it is the Outrigger. Take, for example, the popular "Steak for Two"... a big, double-thick center cut of rib-eye... juicy, flavorful, perfectly aged... and with that great Teriyaki taste. Beautifully broiled over charcoal, carved at your table, and served with soup, tossed green salad, saffron rice, French fried or baked potatoes.

The dim glow of rosy candle-light, warm crackling fire, the smell of leather and dark waxed wood, the "squire" costumes on the two charming hosts, intensified my atmospheric impressions. As I asked questions and made notes, I seemed to hear sounds of horses and carriage wheels on cobblestones outside; wild gusts of winds and rain rattled the paned windows, swept down the chimney to sputter the fire.

Ned Thomas, now sole owner of the Pump House, learned the restaurant business from his famous father, Mark Thomas, owner of the Outrigger and formerly the Mark Thomas Inn. Ned worked his way (during college years) from gardener through the kitchen, to bookkeeping, and then into management after graduation. His natural, quiet charm adds to the warm and friendly atmosphere of the establishment.

Steve Slade manages the Pump House with competence and imagination. As the host, he is courteous and attentive, with a smile that puts one at ease instantly. His time in the service at Fort Ord brought him from Wisconsin, with a degree in political science and economics, back to the Peninsula to stay. The Pump House runs smoothly under his management.

The Pump House consists of several rooms -- all with fireplaces! There is the large dining room, the Tavern area and several game areas. The Dart Room and bar are at the rear of the Tavern. There is room in the Tavern to serve 20 to 30 people. It is a favorite banquet place of local clubs and business associations.

The house specialty is the traditional roast beef, juicy and hearty. Dinners include savories, soup, salad, entree and dessert. The menu includes a fine wine list and many interesting entrees...Ye Olde Beef'n'Kidney Pie, Bird of Bath (stuffed breast of chicken), Prawns Victoria, and many more. Dinner is served from 6 p.m. to 10:30 p.m.

Tavern suppers are served informally from 6 p.m. to 12 p.m. for those who do not wish a full meal, or have just dropped in for a bite to eat and a drink after the theater. Hot spiced cider laced with apple brandy and a twist of lemon, served with Black Bird Pie (a turkey pot pie) is a favorite combination. You'll also find Irish "Pub" coffee, Watney's Keg draft beer and Guinness Stout, roast beef or turkey sandwiches. The bar opens at 4 p.m.

The Old English "Pump House" was first established at the famous mineral spas such as Bath in Somerset County. It separated the men's and women's bathing areas and supplied the beer, ale and roast beef to England's vacationing aristocracy. Visitors from England have praised the decor and cuisine of our local Pump House being realistically representational. Some, on their return to England, have written added compliments.

Stem cuttings: ground cover

GENETIC CODING for the entire plant is included in every cell of every plant. Therefore, it is possible to grow an entire plant or any part from any cell. This phenomenon allows roots to develop from a stem or leaf if the conditions are right.

Geraniums are one of the easiest plants to reproduce from stem cuttings. All that is necessary is to snap off a stem about pencil-size or larger, to pinch off the leaves from the bottom three or four inches, and to push the bare stem about two inches into the ground. Then it's a simple matter of watering it every day or every other day until new growth starts.

Some of the ice plant ground covers can be rooted by digging a small trench and placing sections of the ice plant at three or four inch intervals. Most of each section of the ice plant will be covered with soil and the sections should be watered daily until new growth starts, usually within one to two weeks. Often the ice plant will wilt after a day or two; but if the watering is continued, it will revive as soon as rooting starts.

Many other plants can be started from stem cuttings by using starting trays or flats. African daisy is an excellent ground cover for moderate slopes. Bacharis ("coyote bush") is a native plant that is excellent for holding steep slopes. Both grow dense enough to eliminate weeds as soon as they are established, and both can be started in flats (with 30 to 40 plants to the flat) by stem cuttings, especially this time of year. Smaller numbers can be started in pots. The daisies require about a month for rooting and the bacharis bushes, about six weeks.

TO ROOT stem cuttings, fill a flat with planter mix or with good soil mixed with compost, then cut six inches of a twig from the plant. Then pinch off the bottom two inches of leaves and dip the cut end of the twig in "Rootone" or some other rooting powder.

Holes just larger than the twigs should be poked in the planting mix so that the twigs can be inserted about two inches deep without wiping off the rooting compound.

When the flat is complete, the soil should be firmed around each twig so that the twigs are in contact with the soil all the way to their tips. The flat should then be thoroughly wet down.

Covering the entire flat with plastic to hold in moisture is easily accomplished. To begin, put four or five small sticks at each corner and in the middle of the flat. A good grade of clear plastic can then be placed over the entire flat and sealed with pins or clothes pins, so that the sticks hold the plastic up off the twigs.

The flat should be placed where it will get filtered or part-day sun. The cutting should be self-sustaining for at least one month. (The plastic prevents the water from evaporating and assures a high moisture content in the air surrounding the leaves.) Properly done, the leaves shouldn't even wilt, but a little wilt is no cause for concern.

As soon as you detect plant growth, it is time to set the cuttings outside. The flats should be exposed outdoors to progressively larger doses of sun to harden the plants two or three days before removing the plastic. After the plants are placed into the ground, they should be watered daily for about a week and, thereafter, weekly until they exhibit a strong growth pattern.

Anyone needing cuttings of an African daisy, bacharis or small ice plant, stop by my garden. I've got plenty.

Elementary school principals to exchange roles

Principals at Tularcitos and Carmelo Schools in Carmel Valley will exchange positions beginning August 1, the Carmel Unified School District announced last week. Tom Williams, who has been principal at Tularcitos for the past four years, and Phillip Smith, teaching-principal at Carmelo for the past six years, requested the exchange.

For Williams, the switch represents a chance to get back into the classroom to catch up on the shifts in the children's attitudes, goals and daily concerns. For Smith, the move provides a welcome opportunity to devote himself on a full-time basis to administrative responsibilities.

Several school systems in the nation, including the nearby Monterey system, have an automatic rotation procedure to allow for administrative turn-over on a regular basis. "I think this is a sound practice we're following," said Williams last week, "and I think the school district will benefit from the change."

Williams will leave his strictly administrative post to assume the joint responsibilities of teaching-principal at Carmelo School. He will replace Smith as a team-teacher, with Mrs. Imogene Speiser, in the Beta unit, which is comprised of children of second and thirds grade age.

As this past year's chairman of the Peninsula division of the Monterey County Early Childhood Organization, Williams has been closely involved with primary school teachers during their monthly meetings. He is particularly enthusiastic about dealing on a personal level with the teaching of mathematics, reading and other skill areas, he said.

Smith, who came to Carmelo as a teacher 11 years ago, is enthused at the prospect of handling administrative work exclusively for the first time in his career. "I'm very much looking forward to the principalship at Tularcitos. It will be a challenge," he commented.

The CUSD also announced the appointment of a new teaching-principal at Woods School in Carmel. Raymon Wilson, an upper grade teacher at River School for the past four years, has been reassigned to the teaching-principalship at Woods School, replacing Robert Douglas, who has requested reassignment to a full-time teaching position.

Model rocketry at Middle School

One of the more unusual in which 8th graders at Carmel Middle School have become involved is model rocketry. Several students participate in a course specially designed to combine the objectives of science and problem solving with model rocketry.

Initially, rocket-kits are purchased, and each student, through reading instructions and with the help of classmates, constructs his own rocket. Proper techniques of sanding, gluing and painting, as well as other manual skills are developed during this stage.

Once the rockets are constructed, stability tests are performed to ensure that the rockets will fly straight. A burning permit is then obtained from the fire marshal and students are cautioned that rockets should not be launched when fire danger is high.

STUDENTS in the Middle School rocketry class go outdoors for a noontime launching of the "D" powered "Goblin."

PROUDLY displaying his rocket collection at a school fair, Paul Corona holds up one of the largest model rockets he has constructed.

The launch site is located in the lower athletic field at the Middle School. An electrical launch system is used, and students are kept at a minimum of ten feet away from the rocket at the time of the launch. Rocket engines are all factory made; homemade rocket engines are not allowed.

Some rockets travel well over 1,000 feet in altitude. The approximate altitude is calculated by using student-made altimeters, which measure the angle between the rocket apogee and the ground observer. This angle is translated into yards or meters with the use of trigonometric tables.

Wind direction and speed are also observed to help predict the landing sites. The rockets use parachutes, streamers or tumble-fall recovery systems.

The program has generated considerable enthusiasm among the students and next semester a mini-course in advanced rocket design will be offered.

Two Middle School teachers named 'Outstanding Educators'

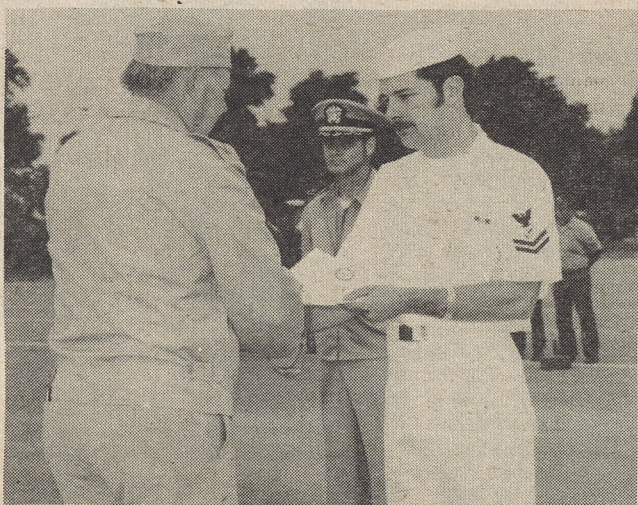

Mrs. Willie Belle Mason, Middle School mathematics teacher, and Kenneth Wiese, Middle School crafts teacher, have been chosen outstanding secondary educators of America for 1974.

Nominated by their principal and the central office administration earlier this year, Mrs. Mason and Wiese were selected for this honor on the basis of their professional and civic achievements. Mrs. Mason and Wiese have been leaders of the Middle School faculty since that school opened in 1962. Prior to that time both taught at Sunset School.

Outstanding Secondary Educators of America is an annual awards program honoring distinguished men and women for their exceptional services, achievements and leadership in the field of secondary education. Each year, the biographies of those honored are featured in the awards volume, "Outstanding Secondary Educators of America."

Mrs. Mason and Wiese are now eligible to compete for the Outstanding Secondary Educator of the Year award trophy. Five $500 unrestricted grants will be awarded to the schools represented by America's five outstanding secondary educators.

Distinguished judges, along with the board of advisors, will select the five individual secondary teachers to be honored. In this way, the program thanks the teacher and the school for their contributions to the continuing excellence of American education.

NAVY DATA Processor 2.C. Alex A. Pshevlozky, son of Mr. Alexander K. Pshevlozky of Carmel Valley, receives his certificate of advancement during battalion ceremonies at Los Alamitos Naval Air Station. The presentation was made May 16 by the commanding officer, Capt. M.D. Blixt. Petty Officer Pshevlozky has been assigned to NAS Los Alamitos since May 1972 and currently is assigned to the Data Processing Department.

By LUCY SMITHSON

"IS MY horse the right conformation for jumping?" asked a gung-ho teenager the other day.

"Well, no, not unless he's built like a kangaroo," we replied.

No horse is the right conformation for jumping. Jumping isn't the natural mode of travel for horses. Nature has built them very efficiently to run with the wind but quite poorly for going over painted poles and brush jumps. Is it nice to fool Mother Nature?

Left to themselves, horses rarely jump. Jumping is a human notion of a fun thing for horses to do. Even trained jumpers rarely go over their pasture fences.

You see, a horse is constructed like an upside down pyramid. There's a great, heavy body on top, and all that weight is concentrated onto precariously built legs supported by teeny tiny hooves. In galloping or jumping, all that weight is multiplied by speed to put a lot of momentum which bears down on one hoof at a time.

What appears to be a hoof is really a fingernail -- or toenail, in the case of a hind foot. The other finger bones have sort of absorbed in the legs and have half disappeared. What we call a knee is actually the horse's wrist. What we call the horse's elbow actually is his elbow. His upper arm is way up in his chest.

On the horse's back leg, it's really a heel sticking up in the air that we call a hock. His knee is right up against his belly; we call it a stifle joint. A horse gets "stifled" has a slipped patella, the little pan-shaped bone we use as a knee cap.

Have you ever played with Tinker Toys? Try stacking a couple of the long sticks and then fitting a spool onto the top end. Immediately the long sticks slip down past one another.

The same principal applies to the long bones of a horse's leg. They're stacked end to end without a whole lot to hold them together. Amazing that the whole organism can stand and run! And you want to jump a Tinker Toy construction like this?

Well, people do jump horses. It is a lot of fun. And some horses go on jumping for years without breaking down. It has a lot to do with how they are jumped, how they are cared for, and how they are built.

Every horse can readily jump obstacles as high as the point of their shoulders. They can even do it with riders on their backs.

Whether they can keep on doing it and can tackle even higher jumps without ruining their legs depends a lot on what kind of shock absorbers they have.

Humans have arches in their feet and fat on their legs.

These are our shock absorbers.

Horses have frog-like and somewhat flexible hooves. They have pastern joints and marvelous shoulder systems. Humans have clavicles, but horses' shoulders do not fit into bony sockets. You could cut a horse's front leg off and never hit bone.

This muscle attachment system is a grand shock absorbing system for front end shocks. And that's where most of the shocks hit. Two-thirds of your horse's weight is in his front end. When landing over a jump, all of his weight is on the forehead.

"IS MY horse the right conformation for jumping?"

That's why people look for horses with long sloping shoulders. Actually they're looking for a good deep angle between the shoulder and the horse's upper arm, too. The straight up-and-down type of shoulder is going to take it on the chin every time -- crunch!

A SLOPING pastern also provides a curved area which can take up shock. But a pastern can be too long, too sloping. The shock of hard landing could drive a horse's pastern right down to the ground and damage the sesamoid bone.

It helps if a horse's hooves and legs are set squarely. The pigeon-toed horse is going to put too much strain on the outside of his leg and on those almost-disappeared finger bones. The strain often appears as a splint or as sidebones (bony growths on the lateral cartilages of the feet).

The horse that stands "duck foot" is predisposed to stepping all over himself. This unfortunate state can rarely be altered until the horse has destroyed his own legs, although leather leg boots can sometimes down the rate of deterioration of proper stance.

The horse whose natural tendency is to stand behind his own front legs a little, like a stretched out Saddlebred, is going to bow a tendon when he jumps. So will the horse that is "over at the knees," though not so readily.

Poor conformation predisposes a horse to injuries and breakdowns when put to the great strain of jumping. Even little defects that would never show up in a horse used only for flat work can cause major problems.

More and more vets are saying the most common problem they encounter is navicular disease, particularly of the front feet. So you might pay particular attention to your own horse's front end conformation before submitting him to the human fun of jumping.

Even if your horse has a wonderful front, you can't be certain he'll get off the ground. We still need to look at his back and his back end.

The key word in considering a jumper's conformation -- memorize this for brownie points -- is "angulation." On the front end, we look for good shock absorbing angles. On the back end, we look for deep angles that can unfold to drive 1000 lbs. of peculiarly built animal over a fence. Sufficient length, slope and angulation of the hip bones, stifle, and hock are what's called for -- plus muscle to power the engine.

There's some controversy over the role of flat croups versus goose rumps. The Arab and Saddlebred breeds, whose croups are quite flat, do very nicely over jumps but they've got a lot of other good conformation going for them. Often, the steeplechasers and serious high jumpers are found to slope off quite sharply towards the tail. The drooped croup seems to put a lot of bottom under the horse.

The horse with a short, meaty back and neck is also at a disadvantage over jumps. Although it is not the strongest back conformation, a little extra length in the back can provide show jumpers with an extra degree of freedom for negotiating tricky obstacles.

During a jump, the horse's neck first makes an obtuse angle with the horse's back, and then, by back muscles alone, the angle changes to an acute one. This is called the bascule and it happens very fast. A horse with a short, thick neck, besides having a heavy front, is more inclined to schuusbomb over a jump without changing the neck-back angle. He'll break down soon.

My teenage friend is not going to read this. She's too gung-ho. But her horse would certainly appreciate it if she did.

CAREER SALES OPPORTUNITY

Would you like to earn $10,000-$25,000 a year, or more, as a salesman? You can do it right now here on the beautiful Monterey peninsula. No over-night travel is required. We offer a comprehensive three-year training program. You will receive excellent fringe benefits. There is an opportunity for rapid advancement.

Last year the average income of our four-year associates was $18,220. Our top 100 leaders averaged $43,000, and some in that group have incomes in excess of $100,000. In recent years our top salesmen have qualified for meetings in Miami Beach, Florida; Banff, Canada; Colorado Springs, Colorado; Hot Springs, Virginia and Bermuda.

We offer a guaranteed starting salary up to $1200 a month. A bonus plan makes it possible to earn $20,000 the first year - in excess of $30,000 the second year. We can prove that this has been done. After the initial three-year training period, our men are self-employed and completely independent.

A sales background and college degree are desirable but certainly not essential. Many of our men have master's degrees and law degrees. Many of them have college degrees, others are only high school graduates. We have successful men under 25 years of age. Other successful men in our organization are grandfathers. We have no particular requirements. We are looking for honest, hard working people who meet the public well, and who will work hard and follow well proved systems exactly.

Take five minutes to investigate this challenging, satisfactory and rewarding career. Call Clark Struve on Monday, June 3 between 7 p.m. and 9 p.m. at 372-7331.
